

BELIEVE KIDNAPPERS ABDUCTED THE SCION OF WEALTHY FAMILY

Conflicting Theories Offered
of Caleb Jones Milne, IV.

BROTHER GETS LETTER

Told to Keep a Large Amount of Money on Hand

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(INS)—G-men and crack New York detectives swung into action today in a search for kidnapers who are believed to have abducted 23-year-old Caleb Jones Milne, IV., scion of one of Philadelphia's oldest and most aristocratic families.

Conflicting theories were offered to explain young Milne's strange disappearance from his home on Saturday, but the youth's 18-year-old brother, Frederick received a special delivery letter, postmarked from Poughkeepsie, yesterday, which read:

"We have your brother in the country. Keep in touch with your grandfather in Philadelphia. Keep a large amount of money on hand."

The Federal men, the detectives and Milne's relatives all maintained silence on the subject of his disappearance.

The young man's grandfather, Caleb Jones Milne, 2nd, wealthy retired textile manufacturer, could not be reached, while his uncle, Warren Milne, parried all questions with:

"Perhaps my nephew went out on a party."

From all that could be ascertained, however, there was little of hilarity in the circumstances immediately preceding Milne's disappearance.

A strange telephone call, it is said, reached him in the studio apartment he shared with his brother, Frederick.

"This is Dr. Green in Grace Square," the voice on the phone is reported to have said. "Your grandfather is seriously ill and wishes you to come with me at once to Philadelphia."

Immediately after receiving the call, Caleb left the apartment, pausing long enough to ask his landlady for directions to Grace Square, a small park on the upper East Side.

Yesterday Frederick Milne found a note in the apartment from Caleb in which the elder brother said he intended to visit his grandfather in Philadelphia in company with Dr. Green of Grace Square.

At noon the kidnap letter arrived. Frederick immediately telephoned his mother, Mrs. Frederick Lucy Milne, who is separated from the boy's father.

Admit Gas Station Robbery at Doylestown

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 16.—Two brothers, Walter Powell, aged 26, and Alfred Powell, aged 23, both of Doylestown, N. J., according to Chief of Police James P. Welsh, Doylestown, admitted having held up and robbed Harold Bishop, manager of the Sunoco gasoline station on South Main street, Doylestown, Wednesday evening, December 4th.

Accompanied by Bishop and Richard Souder, the latter employed at the Lehigh Valley gasoline station, West State street, Doylestown, Chief Welsh went to Philadelphia on Friday to give the employees at these places of business an opportunity of trying to identify the two youths who were being held at the headquarters of the Sixth Detective Division at 22nd street and Hunting avenue.

The youths were being held there after having been caught in the act of robbing a gasoline station in Philadelphia a few nights ago.

Bishop, it is said, readily identified the men as the ones who held up and robbed him about a week ago, but Souder said they are not the persons who held him up on another occasion.

The youths, it is said, have admitted robbing a gasoline station in Abington. They are also charged with having robbed at least six gasoline stations in Philadelphia. It is said they have also confessed to having robbed a number of stations in New Jersey.

Following their identification, Chief Welsh lodged detainees against them, and following their trials in Philadelphia they will be brought to Bucks county for trial.

THE FARMER'S TARIFF

(Saturday Evening Post, December 7, 1935)

The AAA program is so costly, experimental and controversial that to uphold it with misleading analogies is doubly unfortunate. The benefits paid to farmers out of processing-tax collections are described as economic equivalents of price advantages to those who benefit from a protective tariff. If industry is entitled to tariff protection, then agriculture is entitled to these benefit payments, so the argument runs, and though it has a catchy sound, the actual analogy has only the flimsiest basis.

In the first place, customs dues have not been levied entirely for the purpose of protecting manufacturers, but, to a large extent, throughout our entire history, with the simple idea of raising revenues for general governmental uses. In the second place, while tariffs have created a protected domestic field against foreign production, they have not restrained production or prevented free competition within that field. Nor do tariff duties assure the protected producer of returns increased to the full extent of the duty. Under the AAA processing tax, the Government actually mails checks to all producers who sign the agreement. Manufacturers benefit in no such immediate, direct or even certain way, and sometimes not at all, in the long run.

Finally, the benefit payments and processing tax are in addition to the tariff and not a substitute for it, as apologists seem to imply. Hundreds of agricultural products carry tariffs, some very high. As Joseph S. Davis, director of the Stanford Food Research Institute, says, "In no other instance have consumers faced the necessity of paying prices enhanced by the combined influence of a tariff duty and production restrictions, plus an internal-revenue tax for the benefit of the producers, as under the present wheat program." It must be remembered that heavy and important tariffs exist on wheat, corn, potatoes, butter, eggs and many other farm products.

The system of protective tariffs has developed gradually over many decades. The largest customs dues ever collected totaled little more than six hundred million dollars, whereas in 1933 the total was only $250,747,992. Already, after only two years of operation, nearly $1,000,000,000 of processing taxes for AAA benefit payments are assessed in a single year, and there are still many products which have not been brought into the AAA fold.

Thus the analogy between tariffs and the processing-tax, benefit-payment scheme falls to the ground. Quite regardless of the relative merits of the tariff and AAA policy, one is not an offset to the other, nor is one comparable with the other. If the farmer is not given adequate protection by tariffs, that is one thing, and it should be considered on its merits. Processing taxes are another and quite different thing.

Tibbett Film Reveals Life of An Opera Star

No one picture in years offers the entertainment, the quantity and quality of music, the comedy and romantic action that are contained in the 20th Century film, "Metropolitan," which comes tonight to the Grand Theatre.

Starring Lawrence Tibbett, idol of the American music loving public, "Metropolitan" tells an animated story of a young American singer, his triumphs, tragedies and romantic adventures in his struggle for recognition.

Tibbett plays the vigorous and ambitious young singer who strives against almost insuperable obstacles to attain his ambition. Leaving the Metropolitan Opera because he receives no encouragement, he attaches himself to the company of Alice Brady, a temperamental and amorous prima donna. She loves Tibbett, and he in turn loves Virginia Bruce. But because he realizes that the fate of everybody in the company depends on his actions, Tibbett manages somehow to temporize.

Finally, Miss Brady leaves the company stranded and penniless, just before their anticipated opening. The climax of the picture shows how Tibbett and his fellow-singers achieve the impossible and manage to open and win a success beyond their wildest dreams.

NEW WAR FLEETS FOR OLD

Jane's Fighting Ships, the world's authoritative yearbook on the war fleets of the several nations, deals with figures from navy yards rather than from naval conferences. Accordingly, one may be helped in gaining a realistic attitude toward the London naval conference by reading in the foreword of the new edition, published last week, assertions like this:

"Whatever may be the outcome of the naval conference, there can be no question that the new era of capital ship construction has begun. It may be said to have opened with the laying down of the French battleship Dunkerque three years ago. . . . Despite millions which have been expended in modernizing the capital ships of the United States, Japan and, more recently, England, there is abundant truth in the adage that reconstruction seldom pays. Since the three leading powers all possess a number of battleships whose average age is approaching the twenty-year limit, it is beyond question that replacement programs soon will be the order of the day. It will be the task of the conference to insure that programs of this kind are not launched without previous agreement if future armament races are to be avoided."

Well, the taxpayer in his day has paid the bills for a lot of armament and a lot of wars and perhaps he will continue to pay such bills for years to come. Nevertheless, some day he may declare that he's all fed up with rearing sons for cannon fodder and with paying the bills of the system that kills those sons and, so declaring, do some of the conferring himself, instead of leaving it all to the diplomats and the admirals. Stranger things have happened.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENTS

Christmas entertainments—how the children enjoy them! What is it that makes their little entertainments so splendid? Their stage fright helps a little. The sea of heads in the audience confuses them and gives them stage fright, but whether they make perfect orations, or fail in the attempt, their baby faces creep into the hearts of the people and makes them glad.

So if they distinguish themselves in their recitations we love them, if they break down, we love them in their discomfiture. This is how the matter stands, and no mother need be ashamed of her boy because he fails in his "piece."

Coming political campaigns cast their braggadocio before them.

Signs of progressing civilization. Nations trying to talk themselves out of a war.

Of the shopper who puts on Christmas shopping it was written "Procrastination is the thief of time."

It's no wonder grafters are de-praved and wicked. Look at the prominent citizens they do business with.

House-cleaning is easy. You take a broom and raise a dust; then you take a rag and wipe off the furniture.

Nature even things. If you work hard enough, you can afford the greatest specialists by the time you break down.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

By Courier Staff Member

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol, June 11, 1874. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

The heat last Tuesday was very oppressive, the breeze which had rendered the warmth of the preceding days in a measure endurable having died away. The thermometer ranged high in the nineties in different localities of the borough. About ten o'clock Morris Landerbough, while working on the roof of Thomas Hughes & Co.'s mill, was overcome by the heat, and William Daniels, engaged on the roof of Joseph H. Foster's new home, was also prostrated about the same time. Both are, however, recovering.

From a correspondent at Tullytown, we learn that the Centennial Tea Party which came off last Saturday evening, was a very pleasant affair. The style of dress of 1776 was brought into use, which made it conspicuously interesting. Clear starch was used to such an extent on the hair that our correspondent thinks it will be apt to cause a rise in the market. The proceeds from Saturday evening's entertainment amounted in all to about eighty-five dollars, which was highly satisfactory to the managers.

There are twenty-seven men at work in removing sand and gravel from the bar of the Periwig, opposite Borden-town. Since the 1st inst. 9,000 cubic yards have been taken out, and the channel is said now to be wide enough for navigation. There are two dredges, seven lighters and two tug boats employed.

The carcasses of the nineteen miles whose lives were destroyed by fire on Wednesday of last week, were placed upon the timbers of the stable that were left remaining, and the whole saturated with coal oil, the torch was then applied and the remains burned to ashes.

Charles Wharton, of Tullytown, had the fingers of his right hand mashed off near Tacony, last Friday, while pulling out a car bolt on a construction train.

Persons desiring to keep posted on the weather will find our thermometer report, as furnished by Jesse B. Mears, very interesting reading.

A little child of Mr. Hellings, residing on Mill street, while slumbering in a cradle, was severely bitten by a house rat, last Monday night.

The Right Rev. Dr. Stevens, Bishop of Pennsylvania will (D. V.) preach and administer the rite of confirmation in St. James Protestant Episcopal Church, on Sunday, the 14th inst. at 7.30 p. m. We are sure there will be a large audience as Bishop Stevens never fails to delight and edify those who hear him.

Last Sunday, Rev. Oscar Hugo, the Hungarian exile, preached in the Methodist church in the morning, and in the Presbyterian church in the evening on "An Open Bible in the Public Schools."

Last Monday night the Union Building Company held its first meeting at the Engine House Hall. The following officers were chosen: President, Jonathan Milnor; Secretary, Samuel Swain; Treasurer, Charles T. Iredell; Directors, Peter Bloomsburg, William A. Girton, Jonathan Lovett, Richard E. Shaw, Thomas Harkins, William Potter, and Charles E. Wright.

WARMINSTER—Money cannot be very scarce in this vicinity. At the regular meeting of the Johnsville Building and Loan Association, on last Thursday evening, three loans were offered for sale, but no bids received. The citizens of Johnsville were disappointed last week by not receiving the Harbor papers, the cause of which is yet unknown.

On Saturday last A. P. Jarrett, started for Stroudsburg, Northampton county, to attend a circular meeting of Friends held there the following day.

HULMEVILLE—Last Thursday night the people were pleasantly addressed by Mrs. Harriet Goff, of Philadelphia, on the temperance question. The lecture was delivered in open lodge in the hall of the Good Templars. The speaker clearly revealed the misery and cost of those engaged in the liquor traffic, and gave illustrations of the sad effects of it upon humanity.

A stated meeting of the Borough Council was held in the Town Hall on Monday evening, 8th inst. . . . On petition of John Lacy and other citizens, the Street Committee were instructed to have a public lamp placed at corner of Washington and Pond streets.

Three trustees were renamed to office at the morning service in Nesaminy M. E. Church yesterday. The trio includes: Messrs. Edwin W. Henry, Sr., George Hibbs, C. Wesley Haefer. The tellers were Messrs. George Douglass and Jesse C. Everitt.

During the week-end Mrs. G. Russell Harrison and son Raymond and Miss Lottie A. Smith, New Brunswick, N. J., visited relatives here.

Three local members of the Aeolian Choir of Trenton accompanied the choir to New York yesterday afternoon, and participated in numbers given at St. Thomas Episcopal Church. The local members, Mrs. Harold Dusenbury, Miss Grace H. Hilck, and Arthur McCarthy, were accompanied to the metropolis by Miss Eleanor Carver, South Langhorne; Miss Marian Taylor, Abington; Mr. and Mrs. John McCarthy, Robert and John McCarthy, Jr., Hulmeville.

Mrs. James Robinson is suffering from shock, lacerated nose and head, after an automobile collision at Longshore and Torresdale avenue, Philadelphia. She was taken to Frankford Hospital.

BEATS MEN CANOEISTS

BERLIN — (INS) — In a long-distance competition for canoeing a Berlin woman has beaten all the men entrants—by 30 miles. During week-ends this year, Frau Elisabeth Dosch, aged 44, paddled 1,743 miles in her canoe. All the week she works in a post office in Berlin but every Saturday and Sunday she spends on the lakes around Berlin.

HOLLYWOOD—Fashionable Hollywood has a new craze—attending the jiu-jitsu matches in the downtown Japanese district of Los Angeles. The film folk, in their expensive limousines, usually invade the sector early enough to drop in at a Japanese restaurant and put down a meal of sukiyaki and other Oriental dishes. At the matches afterwards you'll often find some of the cinema's biggest names. The other night, for instance, there were Florence Eldridge and Fredric March, Paula Stone, Kay Linnaker, Gloria Swanson and Herbert Marshall. The Hollywoodites claim the sport is just as exciting as the bone crunching extravaganzas to be seen at the local stadiums. And there are not half so many autograph seekers.

Gloria Swanson

The marriage date of Polly Ann Young and Carter Herman, Pasadena socialite, is being set up from February. In fact, we wouldn't be surprised to see them take the step several weeks earlier. The exact date will depend upon sailing schedules for Honolulu. There will be no elopement here. Polly Ann still plans on having a church wedding.

After 12 years, Hugh Walpole will lose Harold Cheevers, who has been secretary, bodyguard and traveling companion to the English novelist. Cheevers, a burly chap for all his name, is going into the patent medicine business. Yes, sir, the same medicine which Walpole credits with curing him of rheumatism. The remedy was, after a fashion, Cheevers' discovery. He heard about a Belfast doctor who was using it and induced Walpole to take a bottle. The cure got such publicity that there has been thousands of inquiries about the medicine and Cheevers has formed a company to promote it. Business of the company will take him immediately to London.

You Asked Me and I'm Telling You! Clifton Weems, New York City: In all fairness, you couldn't expect the movie producers to film "The Children's Hour" in its original form. As Samuel Goldwyn saw the play, it was primarily the story of the vicious effect of a whispering campaign. This theme will be retained. The two women of the picture will be Merle Oberon and Miriam Hopkins. The schoolgirl's whispering campaign will be directed against Miss Hopkins and Joel McCrea, who is Miss Oberon's fiance in the story. And there'll be a happy ending, instead of a suicide. Don't forget that Lillian Hellman herself came to the coast and made the desired changes in the script.

Like Bing Crosby, Raoul Walsh now has interest in a fighter. The director bought the contract of Charley Coates, young Negro heavyweight who has been finishing off coast opponents via the knockout route. Walsh plans to take the fighter to Europe for a series of matches early in the new year. He'll be leaving after he finishes directing Mae West in "Klondyke Lou".

This may give a hint of the future plans of H. G. Wells. While visiting Shirley Temple on the set of "Captain January", the novelist asked to be introduced to Jane Darwell, the character actress. To her amazement, he told her she is just the type he needs for a picture to be made in London next year. He carefully took her name and address. And she's that thrilled! You probably remember Miss Darwell. She's the actress who gave such a fine performance as the head nurse (wasn't the character name, Sala?) in "The White Parade".

What Irish director is nursing a scratched face from an hilarious incident at a Vine street restaurant the other evening? His dinner companion, a dancer, objected to his conversation with another girl and suddenly let him have it with her fingernails.

HOLLYWOOD TICKER-TAPE—

It was very funny about Eddie Hillman deciding to go to Chicago the other night in the middle of his own party. Some of the guests saw him off on a late train and, as far as we know, he finished out the journey.

There's romance in the air for Irene Ware and Sid Rogell. Buck Jones' daughter, Maxine, was mistaken for Katharine Hepburn at a New York movie theater the other evening and the auto-graph seekers mobbed her. She finally had to be rescued by the police. The Fred Astaires were dining at the Beverly Hills Brown Derby the other evening. Come to think of it, one of the few times we've ever seen them in a Hollywood rendezvous. . . . Colvin Brown, big shot of the Quigley publications, is in town for a brief stay. And Frances Drake and Tom Brown are the latest Hollywood twosome, but want you to know it's not serious.

DID YOU KNOW—

That George Bancroft won an Annapolis appointment in 1900 for conspicuous bravery as a member of the crew of the U. S. S. Oregon? The vessel struck a submerged rock off Chefoo lighthouse near Peking, and Bancroft volunteered for the dangerous task of diving under the hull to estimate the amount of the damage.

Fire Loss For County Lowest For Many Years

consensus of opinion at the session was that better supervision and more attention to operation of such is necessary, as several fires were said to have occurred from such types of burners. Those having oil burners are being urged by the firemen's association to give more careful study to such, and urged to watch the burners closely.

A committee was named to consider the placing of a monument as a tribute to volunteer firemen, at Washington Crossing Park. The members are: William L. Stachhouse, Hulmeville; Victor Smith, Quakertown; and Thomas B. Stockham, Morrisville. In 1937 the 25th anniversary of the county association will be observed, and firemen are desirous of having such a monument placed by that time, with a fitting celebration. It was mentioned on Saturday evening that the names of the various fire companies in the counties, together with dates of their organization, could be placed thereon. When Washington Crossing Park was laid out, four plots were set aside for erection of monuments, and to date, it is stated, only one, the P. O. S. of A., has taken advantage of the same.

During the early part of the meeting, William J. Ellis, a member of the Newtown Board of Trade, welcomed the guests. The Newtown Band favored with selections; Newtown high school students gave musical numbers; and the Jericho Mountain Hillbillies Band also played.

The association adjourned to meet in Warrington Township Fire Company station at Street and Easton roads, in March.

The Ladies' Auxiliaries had assembled in the Newtown high school building for their meeting, with 50 in attendance. Mrs. Emma Gehman, of Perkase, presided. The two groups enjoyed a repast in the high school cafeteria after the transaction of business. The women were also entertained by high school pupils.

THIRD WARD TO TRY TO TIE FOR FIRST PLACE

The Third Ward Rangers will attempt to deadlock the Moose for first place in the Bristol Basketball League tonight as they face the Young Men's Association quintet in what appears to be a very promising tilt. In the second game of the night, the Hibernians will battle with the Odd Fellows.

The Rangers exhibited the surprise of the league last Thursday night when they stopped the winning streak of the Moose after it had reached four straight. A win for the Pikers tonight will make their average four and one, the same as the league-leading Moose. The Y's, however, are not out of the running for the first half championship and are out to take over the downtowners. A defeat for the Hibernians will most likely blast their pennant hopes.

Whether Marty Fallon's Hibernians have improved enough to be classed with the top-notchers of the league will be decided tonight when his quintet matches up with the Oddies. The Oddies have won one game and lost two, and must win tonight to be in the running.

The managers and directors of the circuit will meet tonight in the Italian Mutual Aid Hall at 6.30 o'clock sharp.

The first game is scheduled for eight o'clock.

25th Anniversary of
P. O. S. of A. Marked

Henry Black on behalf of Washington Camp and the anniversary committee, with a pen and pencil set.

The program was opened by Leslie Moss, past district president, who called upon Gilbert Lovett, financial secretary, for the invocation. Mr. Moss later presented Mr. Black, the toastmaster, who in turn introduced the two speakers of the evening: Charles B. Helms, state secretary of the P. O. S. of A., and Richard Wallace, Sr., president of the Philadelphia-Bucks district of the order.

Mr. Black recalled the blustery night of December 6, 1910, when the fires of the local camp were lighted. "There were 59 charter members, and 16 of that number are active members now," continued Mr. Black. The first president, the late Russell B. Carty, was mentioned by the toastmaster as the "leading light in the organization of Washington Camp." Mention was made of those who first served as officers, Mr. Bell retaining the treasurer's position today. The membership at present, the gathering was informed, is 195. "In spite of a decrease in number, there is no decrease in activities. We can ever be watchful," continued the member of Washington Camp.

Mr. Wallace, the district president, mentioned his enjoyment in the work of the order, and his pleasure in visiting the numerous camps. He stressed need of greater respect and love for the American flag and all that it stands for. "You can blame the parents when the children do not respect the American flag," he added.

State Secretary Helms told that Washington Camp "is one of the greatest and most active camps I've been in contact with. The men who formed this camp made good in promoting this institution. The members have brought about many patriotic achievements in these 25 years. They have helped to keep the United States of America

Three Fair Champions of 1935
By BURNLEY

The so-called weaker sex contributed a trio of remarkable champions to the list of 1935 sport standouts, and the achievements of these feminine title holders compare favorably with the records established by the greatest male athletes.

Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs, the two Queen Helens of tennis, dominated the women's net world for the past year, while Glenna Collett Vare returned to her old position of supremacy in women's golf.

Mrs. Moody and Mrs. Vare staged really sensational comebacks this year. Both have already established all-time records for the number of national titles won in their respective sports, and both were out of competition for several years before returning to the wars in 1935.

These two incomparable competitors reached their greatest heights in making successful comebacks, and once again are rated as the No. 1 performers of women's golf and tennis.

Miss Jacobs, who bowed to her old rival, Mrs. Moody, in that pulsing quickening Wimbledon final, gained the top ranking in the national rating when she captured the U. S. women's title for the third straight time at Forest Hills.

The stocky chop-stroke artist keenly regretted the absence of Mrs. Moody from the Nationals, as she would have welcomed a chance to avenge that last Wimbledon set-back. As it was, Miss Jacobs clearly established her superiority over Dorothy Round and Kay Stammers, the British stars, and all the American competitors with the exception of the missing Mrs. Moody.

genuinely American... This is not a complaining or fault-finding camp, but a constructive one." He mentioned that the greatest work a man or woman can do, aside from the work of the church, is to do good for his or her country. Then he added that "it is impossible to be a Christian in the true sense of the word, and not be a patriot. Christ and patriotism are inter-woven." A high tribute to the work of Brother Leonard Bell was paid by Mr. Helms, and the members were told of their wonderful opportunity of preaching the doctrine of 100 per cent Americanism. "We must wake up to the dangers that beset us. There are many around us who are disloyal to the ideals of true Americanism. The person who doesn't set the right example in patriotism, is a dangerous proposition to the future of America." It was brought out by the state officer that the P. O. S. of A. came into being in December of 1847 when public education was endangered. The fine achievements wrought were made mention of, these including placing of Bibles in the public schools, presentation of flags to the schools, placing of a marker at Washington Crossing Park, the driving of un-American text-books from the public schools. "These are fine achievements, but the finest is when a young man is given the opportunity to take the obligation and witness the initiation, and become a better American. Many a young man has been made a better man because of his association with the P. O. S. of A."

Then continued the speaker "We must be better and more devoted Americans than ever before. The day may come when we will have to sacrifice in order to advance and promote American principles. We dare not let the Constitution of the United States fail. This order is a defender of the

Home Heating Hints

Sectional View. Side View. Turn Damper in Smoke Pipe

MARCH is the month of high winds. Day and night temperatures vary greatly. While the days are usually warmer, the nights are very chilly. This necessitates a few changes in furnace operation.

As the weather moderates, the turn damper should be more nearly in the closed position—particularly on windy days. Wind increases the draft, and if the furnace is not throttled down the fire will quickly burn out. For the same reason it is wise to keep a deep fire. A thin fire will burn out rapidly and it will allow excess air to pass through the fuel bed, sending most of your heat up the chimney.

Remember, then, at this season of the year keep a deep fire in your furnace and keep the turn damper as nearly closed as you can without causing the fire to go out. This will enable you to maintain a uniform temperature—avoid overheating—cut down chimney loss—and save fuel. And it will give you a fire of sufficient body to provide more heat quickly if it suddenly turns cold. (22)

LOUIS SLEPT SOUNDLY
JUST BEFORE THE BOUT

By Davis J. Walsh
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—(INS)—Three days of considered afterthought upon the combination of pig-sticking and clambake at Madison Square Garden on Friday night have left me with two coherent and abiding ideas, namely, how long will the general populace continue to feel amused by the indiscriminate sopping of countless white men upon their open and inviting and none too resilient features? Aren't the promoters overlooking something in not soliciting the Chinese laundry patronage for future Joe Louis productions?

I trust I am not initiating something that cannot be concluded. All I definitely know about it is that, as a Negro born in a hovel in Alabama, Louis just doesn't make the character live. The race is emotional; it lives forever on tiptoe, ready with any provocation to leap into the air and forget to come down. Louis doesn't fit at all.

As a matter of fact, he is a direct and outstanding contradiction and, as a type, he makes the average Chinese look like somebody who's on the verge of a nervous breakdown. Fifteen minutes before the outrage committed upon Paulino's profile, he was stretched out upon a rubber table, sleeping as soundly as the day he was born.

Moreover, his features are Mongolian; slit eyes, a bland mask for a face, his coloring almond. There is also the flat features, set off by cheek bones that bulge well beyond the contour of the cheek. I frankly don't know what to make of the man.

In action, he is as blank as an evening shirt. It isn't the set expression of one absolutely concentrated upon the problem and issue before him; it is the face of a man seemingly too indifferent to vouchsafe so much as a puckering of the eye or a set of the lips.

It took almost four rounds for him to knock Paulino rigid with practically the only real punch he offered during the evening. He was waiting for Paulino to abandon his antics and offer some semblance of a lead, which of necessity would force the other to straighten up in order to punch. Louis would have waited forty rounds just as patiently and impassively.

But, if Paulino had straightened first on the first minute, it would have happened then.

Pope Asks For Peace

Vatican City, Dec. 16—A further appeal for peace accompanied by the significant statement that "We are straining to procure it," was voiced by Pope Pius XI, at the secret consistory where he ordained 20 new cardinals, the largest elevated to the ranks in a century.

"We have not neglected in the past and will not neglect in the future, to affirm and solemnly repeat to all men of good will, to whatever land they belong, that we desire peace," the Pope said.

Turning then to the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, His Holiness continued: "We do not want to interfere with those conflicts which reoccupy only Africa, but which may be said to concern the whole world, because there is solemn uncertainty and danger."

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 16—(INS)—"Inky," now four years old is a hale and hearty boy today. The oddly named child is the son of a Houston couple. He derives his appellation from the fact that he is this city's most famous incubator baby. He lived his first three months in the baby incubator at St. Joseph's Infirmary, taking food from an eye dropper because he was too small to be fed any other way. He weighed one pound and one ounce when he was born in November 1931. Today he tips the scales at 40 pounds.

Caleb III, and who lives with her youngest son, Aubrey, in Woodstock, N. Y.

Mrs. Milne hurried to New York and immediately went into conference with detectives. The news was also telephoned to Caleb's father in Philadelphia and his grandfather in Germantown, Pa.

The police immediately ascertained that there was no Dr. Green in Gracie Square.

According to detectives, the fact that the ransom note advised the family to keep in touch with Caleb's grandfather indicated the writer had intimate knowledge of the family's financial status.

Several years ago, Mrs. Milne had her alimony reduced to $150 a month. She then filed suit, demanding that grandfather Milne pay $250 a month for the support of her four sons. A domestic relations court judge ruled in her favor, citing that the high social position of the grandsons entitled them to enough money to live luxuriously.

The elder Milne took the case to Superior Court and won a reversal of the decision, but he continued to remain on friendly terms with his grandsons.

If the kidnappers hope to obtain a sizable sum for the return of the youth, it was pointed out, their best bet is to extort it from the grandfather.

The grandfather is now 74. He headed the cotton and wool firm of Caleb J. Milne, and sons, and retired in 1924.

friction which has arisen in Council. Thompson, Pfeiffer stated that Thompson had been engaged to patrol the Third Ward because of robberies there, but since there has been none in several months his services were no longer necessary. He also said it was an economy move. Hibbs, Greenlee, Sumner and Nichols argued that his services were as much necessary now as before in order to prevent robberies. They also said that it looked strange to claim it as an economy move when it is done with only about 15 or 16 days left in the year. The motion was tied and lost, but Kohl had a motion passed to inform the Mayor of what action was taken.

For the third time during the meeting the councilmen lined up in a similar fusion to have the names of the delinquent water rents read on the floor of the meeting. This it was pointed out was a slap at one of the Councilmen as it was stated he was delinquent but was paying part time since he had found employment. The motion was lost but Councilman Kohl procured the list to look over privately. He made notations for his personal use.

Members of the Board of Education asked Council to repair the streets around the high school because they are in deplorable condition. It was reported the school authorities are having sidewalks, curbs and gutters placed around the high school through a WPA project and would like to have the borough repair or rebuild the streets to protect their work.

BASQUE WOODCHOPPER CHOPPED DOWN BY BROWN BOMBER

Looking down from rafters of Madison Square Garden in that fourth round of the Joe Louis-Paulino* Uzeudun scheduled fifteen-round bout, the camera got this birdseye view of the knockdown of Uzeudun by the dark-skinned fistic sensation from Detroit. Paulino is shown, lying flat on his back, as Referee Arthur Donovan leads Louis to neutral corner. After eight seconds the Basque got back to his feet, but he was obviously unable to continue and the fight was stopped to give Louis a technical kayo victory.
